Here's a draft of the list of current LOINC's that could possibly be matched against the CDC bioterrorism watch list. For the biological agents, I included both antigens and antibodies in serologies against diseases. However, they may not be interested in waiting until seroconversion takes place on the initial watch; perhaps only antigenic testing should be included.

I haven't finished the chemical agent side of the list. I was going to check against UMLS for synonyms, etc.

See you Friday!
